The 5-minute desk stretch

5:00
START THE TIMER

Four spots. One chair. No equipment.

Neck, shoulders, wrists and hips: the places a long day of sitting hits first. Start a 5-minute timer, move slowly and keep every stretch gentle. A comfortable pull is right. Sharp pain is a stop sign.

1 Neck — 1:20

Chin tucks — 8 slow reps
Sit tall and glide your chin straight back, like a gentle double chin. Hold 2 seconds.

Side neck stretch — 20 s each side
Ear toward shoulder. Hold the chair seat with the other hand to keep that shoulder down.

2 Shoulders — 1:00

Shoulder rolls — 8 rolls
Lift, roll back and let the shoulders melt down. Big, slow circles, backwards only.

Shoulder blade squeeze — 8 reps
Pull your shoulder blades back and down, hold 3 seconds, release.

3 Wrists — 1:10

Palm-up stretch — 15 s each hand
Arm straight, palm up. Gently pull the fingers back with your other hand.

Palm-down stretch — 15 s each hand
Arm straight, palm down. Gently press the back of the hand toward you.

Tendon glides — 3 rounds
Open hand, hook fist, full fist, flat fist, straight fingers. Slowly, one shape at a time.

4 Hips & back — 1:30

Seated figure-4 — 30 s each side
Ankle on the opposite knee. Sit tall and hinge forward a little until you feel the hip.

Seated twist — 15 s each side
Hold the chair back and turn gently, starting from your upper back.
